The course aims:

Begin of the Sino-American relations policy and the effect of the atomic powers on the development policy. Then, an examination of the relations and the intertwined with trade and the various systems, in order to understand the relations between Sino-American and 'Asiaylvit'.

The course requirements:

1. Attendance - 80% of the lectures, and exceptions in rare cases.
2. Repeated examination for those who have missed the beginning of the course.
3. Workload: 15-100 pages of written work.
4. Grading: Attendance - 10%, participation in class discussions - 30%, written work - 60%.

Bibliography:

Jonathan D. Spence, The Search for Modern China, 2nd ed. (New York: W.W. Norton, 1999).

Resources:

New York Times -

China Today - http://www.chinatoday.com

George Washington, "Farewell Address, September 26 1796." Available online http://avalon.law.yale.edu/18th_century/washing.asp

Cohen, America’s Response to China, ch. 1.

Riccard, The Presidency and the Middle Kingdom, pp. 96-102.

Cohen, America’s Response to China, pp. 125-150.

Riccard, The Presidency and the Middle Kingdom, pp. 179-222.

Mann, About Face, pp. 134-174.

Mann, About Face, pp. 274-291.

Available online
